TITLE: Quality assurance report

DATES: 1985-2000.

ARRANGEMENT: Chronological, thereunder alphabetical by name

DESCRIPTION:

These reports are submitted annually to the State Division of Women, Infants, and Children (WIC). They report on an evaluation of clients to determine their specific needs and to establish program priorities. The local health department randomly compares thirty participant case files with previously adopted priorities to determine programs effectiveness and to establish future priorities and reports these findings on this report. They include a list of the division's priorities, a description of all management steps which are used to determine eligibility, other information necessary to qualify a person to receive services, and information on specific clients including name, address, telephone number, and identification number.
